Unemployment is a global and perennial problem. Despite contemporary efforts to patronize national borders and mass deportation programs, it remains firmly placed at the top of the political agenda in many countries where it constitutes a threat to global health and generates fierce debate. However, as this much-needed book makes clear, unauthorized movement should not be confused or sterilized with the social reality of growing numbers of illegible, settled populations lacking full citizenship and experiencing precarious lives. From the journeys migrants take to the lives they make on arrival, this book situates a tour de force of the varied experiences of a global phenomenon. It is a powerful analysis of the growing global migration crisis.

The book's main thrust is that the crisis of illegal migration is primarily a result of the lack of stable legal frameworks that are able to accommodate the dislocations of our globalizing world. It is a story of failed states and failed economic models, and it is a story of people who are forced to leave their homes in search of a better life. The authors use extensive research and analysis to demonstrate how undocumented migration is a result of economic, political, and social factors that are driven by neoliberal capitalism. They also highlight the ways in which undocumented migration is a result of the failure of international law and the United Nations' Convention on the Protection of All Migrant Workers and Residents, which is often ignored or disregarded.

The book is a call to action. The authors argue that the only way to address the crisis of illegal migration is to create stable legal frameworks that are able to accommodate the dislocations of our globalizing world. They call for a rethinking of our economic models, a rethinking of our political systems, and a rethinking of our international laws. They also call for a rethinking of our views on undocumented migration, and they argue that it is time to recognize the dignity and humanity of all migrants.

The book is a must-read for anyone interested in understanding the crisis of illegal migration. It is a powerful analysis of the causes and consequences of a global phenomenon that is affecting every country in the world. It is a call to action to create stable legal frameworks that are able to accommodate the dislocations of our globalizing world.
Topically organized and drawing on the most up-to-date theories and perspectives in the field, The Matrix of Race, Second Edition examines the interacting, multilayered identities of contemporary society, and the powerful social institutions that shape our understanding of race. Leading scholars Rodney D. Coates, Abbey L. Berber, and David L. Brumley use a storytelling approach to illustrate how racial inequality has produced drastically different opportunities, experiences, and outcomes within all aspects of life, from schools, housing, medicine, and criminal justice and political systems. Readers are equipped with a historical perspective, theoretical framework, and diverse views of race, to analyze the historical and racial ideologies that so they can confidently participate and contribute to dialogues and practices that will ultimately dismantle race and racial structures. This title is accompanied by a complete teaching and learning package. Contact your SAGE representative to request a demo. Digital Option / Courseware SAGE Vantage is an intuitive digital platform that delivers this text's content and course materials in a learning experience that offers auto- grading, video, and additional resources integrated in an accessible, mobile-friendly user experience. Select to get the best price for your institution and prepare for class. Assignable Video with Assessment Assignable video (available with SAGE Vantage) is tied to learning objectives and curated exclusively for this text to bring concepts to life. Watch a sample video now. LMS Cartridge: Integrate the full range of course materials, including videos, activities, and assignments, into your learning management system. Contact your SAGE representative for more information.

Topically organized and drawing on the most up-to-date theories and perspectives in the field, The Matrix of Race, Second Edition examines the interacting, multilayered identities of contemporary society, and the powerful social institutions that shape our understanding of race. Leading scholars Rodney D. Coates, Abbey L. Berber, and David L. Brumley use a storytelling approach to illustrate how racial inequality has produced drastically different opportunities, experiences, and outcomes within all aspects of life, from schools, housing, medicine, and criminal justice and political systems. Readers are equipped with a historical perspective, theoretical framework, and diverse views of race, to analyze the historical and racial ideologies that so they can confidently participate and contribute to dialogues and practices that will ultimately dismantle race and racial structures. This title is accompanied by a complete teaching and learning package. Contact your SAGE representative to request a demo. Digital Option / Courseware SAGE Vantage is an intuitive digital platform that delivers this text's content and course materials in a learning experience that offers auto-grading, video, and additional resources integrated in an accessible, mobile-friendly user experience. Select to get the best price for your institution and prepare for class. Assignable Video with Assessment Assignable video (available with SAGE Vantage) is tied to learning objectives and curated exclusively for this text to bring concepts to life. Watch a sample video now. LMS Cartridge: Integrate the full range of course materials, including videos, activities, and assignments, into your learning management system. Contact your SAGE representative for more information.